NEW ORLEANS (AP) — U.S. District Judge Frank B. Ellis today granted a stay in the order to desegregate the first six grades in New Orleans public schools, pending a hearing next Tuesday.

The New Orleans School Board asked for next week's hearing, filing a motion for a new trial on the decision of former District Judge J. Skelly Wright, the man Ellis replaced on the bench.

Judge Ellis ruled today that: 1. His decision does not affect the original desegregation decision of Judge Wright, issued May 16, 1960, a decision which resulted in desegregation on a modified, grade-by-grade plan.

2. In granting the stay, during the period while he decides on whether to open a new trial on the ruling to desegregate the entire elementary grade system, he is not indicating what his disposition on the motion for a new trial will be.

Ellis replaced Wright in the U.S. District Court when Wright moved up to the Appeals court bench in Washington.

"Pending the hearing and study of a motion for a new trial on matters which this court as constituted is considering for the first time," Ellis' decision said in part, "a stay of the temporary injunction is deemed appropriate. This stay in no way reflects the ultimate disposition of the motion for a new trial."

Judge Wright ordered the desegregation of the first six grades when 100 Negroes complained the desegregation process was too long and did not comply with the original court order to desegregate "with deliberate speed."

2 Americans Recovered in Viet Nam

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Two U.S. Army enlisted men captured April 8 by Communist guerrillas were recovered today by South Vietnamese government forces, "tired but otherwise in good health," U. S. officials reported.

The two men, Sgt. 1. C. Francis Quinn, of Niagara Falls, N.Y., and Sgt. George E. Groom, of St. Joseph, Mo., were rescued near the coastal town of Da Nang, about 360 miles north of Saigon.

The spot where they were rescued was not far from the site of the engagement in which the Viet Cong captured them and killed two other American soldiers.

Vietnamese authorities did not disclose whether the two were freed in a military operation or turned loose by their Viet Cong captors.

A U.S. helicopter took them to a U.S. Army special forces camp near Da Nang.

Quinn and Groom were captured in a Viet Cong attack in which Staff Sgt. Wayne E. Marchand, of Plattsmouth, Neb., and Spec. 5 James Gabriel of Honolulu were killed.

The four men were assigned to train a group of 31 Vietnamese civil guardsmen in village self-defense techniques.

Survivors reported the group had been bivouacked for the night near a small town. An estimated 120 Viet Cong guerrillas attacked the encampment.

Bodies of the two dead Americans were found some distance from the site of the attack. Marchand and Gabriel reportedly had been badly wounded before they were captured and apparently the Viet Cong murdered them because they were unable to keep up with the marching column.

Military authorities said Quinn and Groom would be flown to Saigon late today but newsmen would not be permitted to interview them.

Gov. Denies He Worked for a Strike

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gov. Orval E. Faubus denied here Monday a union representative's charge that the governor had attempted to bring about a strike at a Little Rock bicycle plant.

The charge was leveled Sunday night in Little Rock by Jim Smith of Houston, Tex., a representative of the United Steelworkers of America.

"At a meeting of union members, Smith charged that certain 'powerful supporters of Gov. Faubus' were trying to precipitate a strike so the plant would be closed."

Such a closing, Smith said, would give the governor a campaign issue and a chance to speak out against the union.

Faubus called the charge was "news to me." He said he did not know Smith. The governor has not yet announced for re-election.

But Smith, who formerly lived at Benton, Ark., told newsmen the two had met several times during 1961 and Smith had raised campaign funds for the governor.

The union and representatives of the AMF Cycle Co. signed an agreement Monday calling for no change in the hourly wage scale other than normal cost of living hikes.

Faubus, who has been in Washington since Sunday, is expected to return to the state Tuesday morning.

Denies Transfer in Phone Service

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Public Service Commission has denied a request by some Sharp County residents to transfer them from one telephone company's service area to another.

The residents petitioned the PSC Jan. 22 to put them in the service area of the Four States Telephone Co. instead of the Hardy Telephone Co.

On April 7 the Hardy firm installed a dial exchange at Williford, about two miles south of the area involved. The PSC found that the Hardy Co. was willing and financially able to provide service for the petitioners.

The PSC said the Hardy facilities are several miles nearer the area than the other firm's.

May Day Is Observed Over World

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Labor's traditional May Day holiday was celebrated with rallies, speeches and parades on both sides of the Iron Curtain today as police stood guard in Berlin, Buenos Aires, Tokyo and other potential trouble spots.

With Soviet Premier Khrushchev and other top leaders watching from atop Lenin's tomb as usual, the Soviet Union staged one of the least belligerent May Day celebrations ever seen in Moscow's Red Square.

The keynote speech by the Soviet defense minister, Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky, contained only routine attacks on the United States and the usual pledges that the Soviet forces would beat off any attacker.

The military parade of troop carriers, tanks and rockets lasted only nine minutes and there was nothing new for Western military observers to see. While they rolled through Red Square before the 10,000 spectators, the television announcer recited poetry.

The facade of the historical museum, at the end of Red Square, was dominated by a banner calling for "a mighty upsurge in agriculture" instead of the usual "forward to the victory of communism." Badly lagging farm production is the Soviet Union's current No. 1 problem.

After the military parade there came the usual physical culture demonstration and march of the "spontaneous demonstrators."

Malinovsky stressed that the great task of the Soviet Union was to show "the irrefutable advantages of the Socialist system." He said that to achieve this the Soviet Union needed peace and that was the reason for the Leninist principle of peaceful coexistence.

He claimed that the Soviet Union was doing everything possible to achieve disarmament, a German peace treaty and various other things that might bring peace closer. But he charged that the ruling circles of the Western powers "and in the first place the United States" were putting obstacles in the way of achieving this.

The defense minister said the Soviet Union would do everything to prevent World War III but that under current world conditions "it is logical that the Soviet Union will be vigilantly on guard and do everything for our defense."

An unusual spectator at the Red Square show was Belgium's Queen Mother Elisabeth, in Moscow for the second international Tchaikovsky music competition. It was believed the first time that royalty had attended the big Soviet Communist spectacle.

Rocket Plane Goes to 48 Mile Record

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—The X-15 rocket plane zoomed to a record height of nearly 47 miles today but fell short of its goal, the designed maximum of about 48 miles.

The mark was reported to pilot Joe Walker by ground observers before he landed on the flight.

Other figures on the flight were not at once available.

The old mark of 217,000 feet, or about 41 miles, was set last October by Air Force Maj. Bob White.

The designed maximum is 250,000 feet.

Violent Winds Rip Some Areas of Arkansas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The rural community of Spottsville, 10 miles east of Magnolia, was ripped by a storm-spawned tornado Monday, but only two persons—an elderly couple—were injured.

The tornado leveled much of the community, witnesses said, including the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Ainsworth. Mrs. Ainsworth was hospitalized in serious condition while her husband suffered minor scratches.

A nine-year-old El Dorado boy suffered a ruptured ear drum and other injuries Monday when he was struck by lightning while walking through a city park.

The youngster, Bill Bradley Jr., was hospitalized but wasn't believed seriously injured.

Elsewhere across the state, storm-related damage was mainly to trees.

Radio Station KVRC at Arkadelphia reported its wind gauge recorded winds up to 80 miles an hour. Electrical power was disrupted for several hours.

In an odd twist, high winds on Lake Hamilton uprooted Fred Simpson's boat dock and hurled it upside down onto Simpson's patio.

At Nashville, two planes owned by Dan Fullert were overturned by wind, but weren't badly damaged.

Royal, Bald Knob and McCrory reported later with accompanying roof damage, but no injuries.

High winds in the Texarkana area uprooted some trees and the downtown area was damaged by hail and heavy rains.

A station wagon was crushed by a fallen tree at DeQueen. Schools in Harrison were dismissed 30 minutes early Monday because of threatening weather.

Motorists, confronted by premature darkness, were forced to use headlights at mid-afternoon.

Late Monday night the U.S. Weather Bureau in Little Rock issued its final severe weather alert for portions of the state. The alert, covering Mississippi, Crittenden and parts of Poinsett, Craighead, Cross and St. Francis counties, expired at 4 a.m.

The Little Rock area received heavy rains and strong winds Monday night but no damage was reported.

The weather bureau forecast scattered showers and thunderstorms in east Arkansas today, ending by noon. Skies elsewhere were expected to be partly cloudy. High today was expected to range from the upper 60s northwest to low 70s southeast.

Reports Faubus Definitely in for a 5th Term

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Arkansas Democrat quoted unnamed Blytheville Chamber of Commerce officials today as saying that Gov. Orval E. Faubus had told them "off the record" that he will run for a fifth term.

Faubus attended a reception given by the Blytheville chamber in Washington Monday night. The Democrat's Washington Bureau quoted the officials as saying they had learned of Faubus' decision at that time.

Faubus was expected back in Little Rock sometime today. He is expected to announce whether he will run Wednesday morning. The filing deadline is set for noon Wednesday.

The governor's aides said he would be back in Little Rock in time to hear a televised speech tonight by former Gov. Sid McMath, in which McMath said he would announce whether he will run for governor.

Faubus has been in Washington since Sunday. He conferred with the state's congressional delegation, but the congressmen were evasive when asked if they knew what Faubus was going to do. The Democrat reported.

Vernon Whitten of Mount Holly paid his $1,500 filing fee Tuesday to become the fourth fully-qualified gubernatorial candidate.

Whitten joined Rep. Dale Alford, Marvin Melton of Jonesboro and Kenneth Coffelt of Little Rock in the growing number of qualified candidates.

McMath, who has been hesitant about announcing, will appear for 30 minutes on a statewide television hookup at 7:30 p.m.

He is expected to announce his candidacy at that time.

Odel Dorsey of North Little Rock and David Cox of Weiner said previously they would make the race but little has been heard from either in recent days.

Coffelt will go on radio and television Wednesday night after the filing deadline to discuss his candidacy.

Faubus, who in the past week or so has appeared close to entering the running, remains aloof from the situation, giving little hint to his plans.

McClellan Denounces Vote Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., soundly denounced Monday pending legislation on a voter literacy test bill.

In denouncing the bill, McClellan said the Kennedy administration and Congress should drop it and concentrate more toward economicizing.

Earlier Monday, Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., the Senate majority leader, said he may move Friday to place a time limit on debate of the issue.

Debate on the bill which would make a sixth grade education the maximum literacy voting requirement entered its second week Monday.

McClellan labeled the measure an invasion of states' rights. He said he deplored the necessity of a lengthy debate in view of other pressing legislation before the Senate.

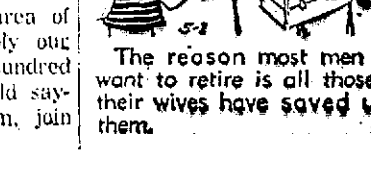

"The wheels of legislation are not rolling," he said. "They are obstructed, for no good reason . . . on an issue that would violate the constitution."

Noting that his state does not have a literacy test requirement, McClellan said if Arkansas enacted such legislation, modeled after the pending bill, thousands of voters would be deprived of their right to vote.

Many Arkansas voters, McClellan said, have less than a sixth grade education.

He warned that if the power to enact the pending legislation rested with the government, it could then prescribe all voting qualifications.

"If we're going to get rid of the constitution," he said, "why don't we tear it in little pieces?"

The reason most men don't want to retire is all those jobs their wives have saved up for them.

Norwegian Ship Damage in Collision

NORFOLK, Va. AP—The Norwegian ship Tarantel, her right side ripped from water line to deck in a Chesapeake Bay collision Sunday, rested aground today while men from two Navy salvage vessels battled to keep her from settling deeper.

The bodies of two passengers killed when the Tarantel was rammed just about amidship by the Greek freighter Hellenic Splendor remained aboard the stricken vessel. The Greek ship, although heavily damaged, continued under her own power to Philadelphia.

Heavy fog shrouded the bay when the ships collided about 6:20 a.m. Sunday. Water poured through the gash in the Tarantel's side and she wallowed stern down. A tug and a Navy salvage vessel-put lines aboard and were towing her toward a shipyard for repair.

The Coast Guard said the Tarantel's agents have decided to leave the vessel where she is until an underwater survey determines whether temporary patches should be made before she is towed into a shipyard for repair.

Pumps and men from the Navy salvage ships Recovery and Shark battled to keep her from settling deeper but were not able to lighten her draft.

A third Navy salvage ship enroute to the scene about four miles northeast of Cape Henry near the mouth of the Chesapeake Bay.

Passengers on the Tarantel who died in the collision were Richard Berry, about 40, of Westfield, N.J., and Mrs. Augusta Fabiani, about 55, of Montreal, wife of an Italian foreign service officer.

Three persons on the Tarantel were injured, none seriously.
There were seven passengers and a crew of 47 aboard the Tar-antel as she headed into the bay from the Atlantic, en route to Newport News to pick up general cargo before proceeding to the Far East.

The Hellenic Splendor was bound out of the bay on a trip from Baltimore to Philadelphia.

was estimated at more than $1 million.

Whipping through a dozen other Illinois communities, the storm felled power lines, trees and homes. At Pontiac, Ill., a chimney collapsed and killed one man.

The destructive winds moved into the Chicago area within two hours, reaching a velocity of 105 m.p.h. at Joliet and nearly 70 m.p.h. in parts of Chicago. A similar pattern of property damage lay behind, as the storm moved eastward into Indiana.

Racing through Logansport, Kokomo, South Bend and Kentland, the storm howled over cars, trucks, trees, and utility lines. A man was killed in Frankfort when a wall under construction collapsed on him. Nearly 50 persons were injured by debris routed by 70 m.p.h. winds at South Bend.

At Lima, Ohio, trees were uprooted, power lines were downed amid a swamping rain and hail.
Six men were injured when a factory roof was torn away and a wall caved in.

Several radio stations were without service in Michigan when high winds knocked out power. A man was killed at Pontiac, other persons were injured at Niles and Pinckney, Mich.

A tornado at night leveled some houses in the rural community of Spotsville in southeast Arkansas.
Several persons were injured.

In Tunica, Miss., an elderly Ne-house collapsed during a storm.

Other houses and property also were damaged.

Trains Collide
Near Fordyce

FORDYCE, Ark. (AP)—Colton Belt and Rock Island freight train collided at a crossing in the southwest part of Fordyce today. No injuries were reported and damage was not thought to be extensive.

Two grade crossings and a viaduct on the Rock Island line were blocked and about 100 feet of Colton Belt track was ripped up. Officials said the tracks probably would be cleared by 3 p.m. today.

The Cotton Belt engine derailed and four boxcars in the Rock Island train went off the track.

Officials of the railroads in Fordyce said they did not know how the accident occurred. An electrical device operates the switch at the intersection, and they theorized that an electrical storm Monday night could have damaged it.

They said both trains were traveling at less than 20 miles per hour when they collided.

The engineer of the Cotton Belt train was E. L. Bolin of Pine Bluff. Names of other crewmen were not learned immediately.

Clark apparently jumped in front of the truck.

superintendent of the Benton unit

Confirmation of Marshall Is Asked

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen.
Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., appealed today to a Senate subcommittee to speedily confirm the nomination of Thurgood Marshall to be a federal circuit judge.

In a prepared statement, Keating said he hoped the current civil rights debate in the Senate would not have repercussions in the hearings on the Negro attorney.

Marshall is a former counsel to the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP). In that post he successfully argued the school desegregation case before the Supreme Court.

The subcommittee, which opened its hearings today, is composed of two southern Democrats —Chairman Olin D. Johnston of South Carolina and John L. Mc-Clellan of Arkansas—and Nebraska Republican Roman L. Hruska.

Keating, a member of the parent Judiciary Committee, has called it a "stacked subcommittee" and accused it of stalling tactics for not having started the hearing sooner.

Marshall already is serving as a judge of the Second Circuit Court, which handles cases from New York, Connecticut and Vermont. He holds a recess appointment which would expire if Congress adjourned without confirming him.

The President first nominated
Marshall to the post on Sept. 23.
He then made the recess appointment on Oct. 5.

Last weekend, Keating said he had discovered the Judiciary Committee staff had prepared material "attacking" Marshall.

He said there was no precedent for direction to staff aides to prepare such material in advance of hearings.

Move on to Force Vote on Literacy Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate leaders moved today to force a vote next week on the administration's literacy test bill.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana announced in the Senate that he and Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois will file a petition Monday to limit debate.

When such a petition is filed, it comes up automatically for a vote two days later.

There are indications leaders lack support of the necessary two-thirds of those voting to cut off debate.

If they fail, the literacy test bill would remain pigeonholed in the Senate Judiciary Committee for this session of Congress.

This would add up to a victory for Southern Democratic opponents who have talked at length against a measure which would exempt anyone with a sixth-grade education from having to take a literacy test to vote in federal elections.

Backers of the bill contend literacy tests have been keeping Negroes from voting in some Southern areas.

Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., told the Senate Monday that the measure is only a smoke screen to cloud the fact that Congress doesn't intend to act in this session on other civil rights measures.

He said that while he supports it, the bill would provide no notable contribution to upholding civil rights. He urged, among other things, that Congress give the attorney general power to file injunction suits to compel school integration.

Sen. Spessard L. Holland, D-Fla., whose state requires no literacy tests, said that when Congress tries to "ram something down people's throats, you go backward instead of forward."

Wife Feels Like the Uninvited Guest

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: My husband's family make me feel like an uninvited guest. No matter how hard I try to be one of them, I am forever like a little girl left out in the snow, peering wistfully in the window of a home where the fire burns brightly, but not for her. I wouldn't mind so much if my husband sided with me. But he puts his family's welfare and happiness above mine every time. Some wives have in-laws who live too near. My trouble is that my husband's people live too far away. Distance makes his heart all the fonder.

Last time they were here (they're a closely knit family and travel en masse), they told me they hated me for taking him from them. And, of course, he sided with them, he being homesick! Naturally I resented this and said so. Thereupon, my husband told me to shut up—and in their presence! My brothers and sisters have always been nice to him too. I'm at my rope's end but long, if possible, to save our six-year old marriage, for the sake of our baby girl.

My husband loves her so much. I'm urging him to move nearer his family so that he may see them as often as he wants. If I went with the baby he would follow. They live 2,000 miles away. When I suggest this he flies into a fury. I don't see any other way out—that or leave him. What do you think?—Woe Is Me

Dear Woe: In-laws can be cold-blooded and often cruel but that's no reason for you to feel inferior. See yourself as the girl your husband loved and married—very much a person in your own right.

Be gracious to his family but keep your own counsel. Recrimination and nagging only make matters worse. Your husband is evidently insecure without the backing of the clan. Supply the security he misses. Praise him for whatever he does, big or little. Try to get his viewpoint. Begin by telling him his loyalty to his family is a wonderful thing. And it is, if he were disloyal to them he could just as easily be disloyal to you.

I doubt that divorce is the solution. Think of the odds against you, in facing life without a husband or father for your daughter. Nor is moving to the town where your in-laws live the answer. Work out the problem where you are. See your husband, not as resenting you, but as a human being also plagued by problems. This may be one reason why he misses the support of his family. Be reasonable and, unless hopelessly immature, he'll be reasonable too.

Dear Helen: I am a teen-age boy in my second year high, with a problem mother, all because Dad is a perfectionist. As a result she has turned to drinking; not very heavy—just enough to calm her nerves, or so she says.

Dad is a travelling salesman, flying all over the United States, stays at the best hotels and expects the same service at home. As a rule he makes it home four nights a week—Tuesday, Wednesday, Saturday and Sunday. But we're never sure, and that's part of the worry. He demands either fried chicken or steak—cooked as a chef can prepare them.

Actually, the only time my sister, brother and I get a decent meal is when he's home. Other evenings Mom completely neglects us. She's so done up trying to please Dad. She works too; leaves home at 8 a.m., doesn't get back till 6:30 p.m. That's when she reaches for the bottle—if Dad isn't home. What can I do to get our family on the right track again?—C.

Dear C.: Theoretically, parents should look after their children. It's quite an undertaking for you to try and straighten out your family so don't be disappointed if you fail—at first.

Your mother is in trouble or she wouldn't be drinking. Talk to her—it's easier for a boy to talk to his mother than his father; say you're sorry to see her drink but don't be critical. Get across the idea that you want to help, not condemn her. Give her the sense of protection—in your father's absence you are head of the house.

Explain that you're frankly concerned because the family's going to pot. Ask her to help you pull

Arkansas Faces Murder Trial

SIKESTON, Mo. (AP) — Circuit Judge Marshall Craig of Sikeston set June 22 as the trial date for James (Buddy) Williams.

Williams will be tried in Benton, Mo., for the Dec. 22 slayings of 19-year-old Frank Craig of Blytheville, Ark., and his 17-year-old girl friend, Brenda Joyce Raines of Holland, Mo.

The 34-year-old Negro is accused of slaying the couple in Pemiscot County, but the trial was moved to Benton on a change of venue granted by Circuit Judge William Ragland of Caruthersville.

Attorneys Robert A. Dempster of Sikeston and George K. Reeves of Caruthersville will defend Williams.

Williams has been held without bond in the Pemiscot County Jail in Caruthersville except for 30 days when he was held in the Missouri State Hospital at Fulton for psychiatric observation.

it together again. Must she work? With those hours and a house and family to run, to say nothing of a finicky husband to cook for, is to attempt the impossible. Money is something you could discuss with your father. He may not even be aware of the strain your mother is under. But remember, not a word about her drinking to him! That is between you two. If you go about this the right way, you could be a big factor in straightening things out.

Send your problem to Helen Worden Erskine, and address her care of this newspaper. Be sure to enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Helpful leaflets available. Write for "Better Home Management."

One For My Dame

By JACK WEBB

THE STORY: Rick Jackson has made the acquaintance of a mysterious young woman who seems to be in trouble.

CHAPTER 2

I poured her a tall, cold, full glass of milk, and a cup of coffee for me. "You'd better take it sitting down," I suggested. Her glance roamed the room again, taking in my three friends, my pictures, the old furniture, heavy wood, shiny worn leather, solid. Then her gaze settled on me.

"I never saw anything like it," she said. "If you think this is something you should see down the stairs." "Down the stairs?" "I run a pet shop."

My first impulse was to shrug. But her eyes stopped that. They said her question wasn't glib, but astonished. I looked at those long, slim legs, the stark yellow frock, that unbelievable red hair. On her right hand was very expensive ring. The watch on her left wrist also had stones in it, large enough to stand an engagement. I thought about her question. In a way it made me angry. You didn't ask a man why he sold insurance or real estate or automobiles or stocks and bonds or shoes or liquor or diamonds . . .

"The world," I said, "is so full of a number of things, I'm sure we should all be as happy as kings."

She smiled, no laughter in the corners of her eyes, only a little color returning to her face and something very much like gentle ness.

"You should have a bony horse," she said, "and a tall lance, and a short fat friend who rides on a donkey."

I grinned at her. "Instead I have a boneheaded dog, a rude bird, and a spoiled monkey."

She glanced across the room at Tina. "Isn't she one of the sort that went up in that missile?"

"One of the two sorts," I corrected. "That's when I got her. I was so sure I'd have a sale."

"And you didn't?"

"No," I said. "She caught a cold from some kid sniffling into her cage and it turned into pneumonia, and by the time we worked our way through that we'd become sort of used to each other."

"And Wolff?"

I was surprised she had remembered his name. "Another bad investment," I told her. "Got him a six-weeks pup. This is a prestige neighborhood, so I figured someone would want a Great Dane. He was real cute when I put him in the window. Six weeks later he wasn't so cute, and a month after that he was embarrassing. Besides, we'd sort of gotten used to each other, too." I reached out and scratched Wolff's chest. He wagged his tail and knocked an ash tray off the coffee table before the sofa.

"She reached and retrieved it. I can see that," she said. The corners of her eyes crinkled, honestly amused.

"Him?" She pointed at the mynah. There was laughter behind her smile now.

"Worst investment I ever made. Fellow came in one day and offered me the bird and cage for 20 bucks. Said his wife was allergic to birds. It was too good a buy to pass up. One thing he didn't mention was that it wasn't Holmes his wife couldn't take - just his fo'e'sle vocabulary. I'm probably the only man you ever met who's in the process of brainwashing a bird."

"Shoot!" yelled Holmes. I grinned at the redhead. "You see," I said. "Birds learn ex-plicitly because of the emotional force behind them. I'm putting the same emphasis on innocent works."

"And when he's cured, you'll sell him?" Those big dark eyes - they really were an emerald green - were watching me.

"No," I admitted, "it's been too long a haul. Besides, we're used to each other, too."

Boldly painted lips, against her pale face, mocked me. "Poor monkey, poor dog, poor bird, all getting used to you. . . ." She reached down and slipped on her shoes. They were clear plastic with just a touch of decoration, almost like glass slippers. She had very pretty feet. She said, "If I were to lose one on the palace steps would you go all over the kingdom trying shoes on girls?"

"Try me."

Now Is Time to Stop the N. Y. Yankees

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

If anybody is going to stop the New York Yankees, the time is now. In the next two weeks the world champions will be playing 16 of 15 games on the road, including series with the top contending Chicago White Sox and the Cleveland Indians. Detroit and Baltimore will be minding strictly by wily second division clubs. So will the White Sox and Indians, except for the Yankee series.

In sharp contrast with 1961 when Roy Hamey, the Yankees' general manager, spent hours on the telephone trying to shore up his pitching staff, Hamey is standing pat, letting the others do the worrying.

"We're not interested in any trades," said Hamey in New York before leaving for the Chicago series. "I'm not bothering to phone and nobody is calling me."

The collapse of Art Ditmar and the ineffective work of Bob Turley threw such a heavy load on Whitey Ford last May that Manager Ralph Houk reorganized his staff and moved Bill Stafford and Roland Sheldon into the starting routine. This year the rotation of Ford, Terry and Stafford has been enough to handle most of the clubs.

Houk was pleased by Roger Maris' hitting in Washington where he boosted his average 110 points to .262 with 10 hits in 19 at-bats, including three home runs. With Cleo Boyer hitting .420 and Mickey Mantle averaging .359, Houk is sitting pretty.

The Yanks send Stafford against Juan Pizarro tonight in the opener of a three-game series at Comiskey Park with the White Sox only a half game behind New York. Pizarro worked the series finale at Yankee Stadium last

Coach Is Happy, Only One Man Out

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP)—Razorback Coach Frank Broyles was a happy man Monday. All but one of his injured players were back in pads as spring practice resumed at Fayetteville.

Broyles said the Porkers showed a lot more zip since returning from their 10-day Easter vacation, but noted that the layoff had caused a loss of timing.

He said Monday's two hour and 20 minute practice tended to lag a little toward the end, but added that the wet, muddy field might have had something to do with that.

Broyles' lone injury now is quarterback Freddy Marshall, who suffered a knee injury just before the holiday. Marshall is scheduled to have the cast removed from his leg today, but Broyles said he definitely was out for the rest of spring practice.

Mainstream quarterback Billy Moore, who has been dressing out only in shorts, donned pads Monday to regain his timing. Moore, who was not expected to play in the Red-White exhibition Saturday at Fayetteville and May 12 at Little Rock, would only smile Monday when asked if he would be in the lineup.

Broyles said Moore's dressing out didn't necessarily mean that he would play, but added that whether he played was up to Moore.

The Porkers have four more practice sessions scheduled for this week, with one day off before Saturday's scrimmage.

Only students, Razorback Club members and members of the press will be admitted to Saturday's game, which will be closed to the general public. The game in Little Rock May 12 will be open to the public at admission prices of $1.

Mays Helps the Giants Climb Into Loop Lead

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Slumpridden Willie Mays has kicked the habit and reformed the National League's No. 1 power combine with Orlando Cepeda for the streaking San Francisco Giants, back on top of the league standings after their sixth consecutive victory.

Both Mays and Cepeda continued their slugging Monday, each tagging a homer to support the four-hit pitching of rookie Gaylord Perry as the Giants knocked off Pittsburgh 4-1 and topped the Pirates from first place.

Over that span Mays and Cepeda have reactivated the potent 1-2 punch that gave the Giants 86 homers and 265 runs batted in during the 1961 campaign. Mays now has seven homers, tops in the majors, plus 16 RBI, while Cepeda has hit six homers and knocked in 21 runs.

While the Giants were extending their streak, Philadelphia snapped one, beating Milwaukee's Warren Spahn 6-4 for their first victory over the veteran left-hander since May 23, 1959. In the only other game scheduled, Stan Williams' five hits gave the Los Angeles Dodgers a 3-1 triumph over Chicago's Cubs.

The American League had a day off.

Mays got the Giants started with a bases-empty homer in the first inning off Vinegar Bend Mizell 1-1. But the Pirates came back to tie it in the second when Don Hoak singled, stole second and came across on Bill Mazeroski's single. San Francisco went back out front in the third when Tom Haller walked, took second on Perry's sacrifice and scored on Mickey Mota's single. Cepeda's two-run homer, after Mays' had Mickey Mota's single. Cepeda's two-run homer, after Mays had walked in the fourth, put it out of reach.

Perry (2-0), whose brother Jim pitches for Cleveland, was knocked out in his first major league start, then beat the Pirates to start the Giants' current streak.

Spahn (2-3), trying for the 32nd victory of his career, was knocked out in the third when the Phils scored five times on Ruben Amaro's double, singles by Tony Taylor and Tony Gonzalez, plus three walks, including a bases-filled one to Don Demeter. Rookie Jack Hamilton (2-2) won it, with relief help from Jack Baldschun in the ninth.

The Dodgers scored two runs in the fifth to win it, snapping a 21-inning scoreless string when an error by Andre Rodgers let Norm Sherry score and Jim Gilliams' single drove in Maury Wills. Andy Carey's homer in the sixth gave Williams (1-1) some additional working room.

Macmillan in Canada Today

OTTAWA AP) — Prime Minister Harold Macmillan of Britain opened conferences today with Prime Minister John G. Diefenbaker on Britain's proposed entry into the European Common Market.

Canada has expressed great concern about the prospect of Britain, a major Canadian customer, entering the closed European trading bloc. As a member of the British Commonwealth, Canada enjoys trade preferences with Britain.

Macmillan arrived from Washington Sunday for a two-day visit and talks and consultation with Diefenbaker.

Convicts Organize Jaycee Group

MOONSVILLE, W.Va. AP) — Dressed in white dinner jackets and black ties, 36 inmates of the West Virginia Penitentiary proudly received Sunday night the first Junior Chamber of Commerce charter ever granted behind prison walls.

They heard talks by Gov. W. W. Barron, state institutions commissioner Joseph Hodgeson and Doug Blankenship of Atlanta, Ga., national Jaycee vice president, who presented the charter.

Accepting the charter was James T. Cantrell, president of the unit, organized under the sponsorship of the Marshall County Jaycee organization. Cantrell is serving a life sentence for murder.

Must Provide Defense for Everyone

WASHINGTON AP) — Three justices of the Supreme Court said today the time has come to require that defense counsel be provided for anyone put on trial in a state court on criminal offense charge.

The view, if ever backed by a majority of the Supreme Court, would overturn a ruling of 20 years ago that lets state judges use discretion as to whether defense counsel should be provided.

The call for a change was made by Justice Black, with support from Chief Justice Warren and Justice Douglas, in connection with a 7-0 court decision that overturned the incest conviction of Willard Carnley in Florida. Carnley's appeal described him as an illiterate who was put on trial without being given assistance of a lawyer. He was sentenced to 6 months to 20 years.

Justices Frankfurter and White did not take part in the case.

The majority opinion, written by Justice Brennan, does not prevent Florida from putting Carnley on trial again with a defense lawyer at his side. Brennan said a defense lawyer, if Carnley had one, might have invoked a state law which permits hospital commitment for persons convicted of the kind of crime charged to Carnley.

Justice Douglas, in an opinion urging the view that anyone on trial ought to be provided defense counsel, said: "The jury system—pride of the English-speaking world—becomes a trap for the layman because he is utterly without ability to make it serve the ends of justice."

In other principal actions of the day, the high court:

Ruled 6-1 that a sick lawyer who spent two winters in Florida on his physician's advice could not deduct rent paid for an apartment as a medical expense when figuring income taxes. The case involved Robert M. Bilder of Newark, N.J., now deceased. Justice Douglas dissented and Justices Frankfurter and White took no part.

Set aside 5-2 the Federal Power Commission's authorization for El Paso Natural Gas Co. to acquire properties of Pacific Northwest Pipeline Corp. The majority held that FPC should not have taken action until there was a decision in a suit filed at Salt Lake City, Utah, attacking the merger as a violation of antitrust law. Justices Harlan and Stewart dissented, and again Frankfurter and White took no part.

Declined to review the conviction of Mickey Cohen, former Los Angeles gambling czar, on charges of federal income tax evasion. Cohen was sentenced to 15 years.

Lashes Plan to Reduce Nat'l Guards

LITTLE ROCK AP) — Arkansas' adjutant general lashed out today at a proposal to reduce the strength of the National Guard and said he was in complete sympathy with members of an engineer battalion who met Sunday in Jonesboro to launch a campaign against the reduction.

Maj. Gen. Sherman T. Clinger said he thought the Defense Department ill-advised in any effort it may make to reduce the strength of the guard.

Headed by Lt. Col. Frank Angelo, commander, the 875th Engineer Battalion Sunday met and agreed on a letter writing campaign to protest a reduction bill now before the Senate. The meeting was also attended by civil officials of Jonesboro.

Clinger said the proposed cut back would also effect the engineer units and two Northwest Arkansas Guard units, the 1st and 3rd Howitzer Battalions of the 142nd Artillery. Each unit, he said, has about 400 men. Both have new armories. The 1st is at Fayetteville, the 3rd at Harrison.

Clinger said the Defense Department has designated the units to be cut only by type, not by name.

In doing this, he said, the department has "dumped a hot potato in our laps." Clinger said he did not know which of the two Howitzer units would be affected if the cutback goes through and that, "it would be hard to decide."

The adjutant general said he felt if the cutback is made, the loss of armories would be a waste of government and local money.

Clinger said he felt the Guardsmen were completely within their rights in asking reconsideration of the proposal. He said they could not, compared with reservists who criticized the president. He termed the reservists ill-advised.

"This is not like the Regular Army," Clinger said. "These are civilian soldiers, not on active duty."
